

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

This report evaluates Q3 digital marketing performance across multiple channels including TikTok, Meta, Google, LinkedIn, and Email. The analysis shows a strong overall return on investment, with TikTok and Meta Ads emerging as the most efficient channels in terms of revenue generation and conversion impact. Google Ads delivered stable but less efficient performance, while LinkedIn and Email marketing showed lower conversion efficiency but remain valuable for niche targeting and customer relationship engagement. Based on these findings, the current marketing strategy is profitable but not fully optimized. A reallocation of budget toward high-performing channels, alongside targeted improvements in weaker channels, is recommended to maximize future campaign efficiency and revenue growth.
